

Optional Words for "See You in the Morning"
Michael Ames, on the passing of their son, April 6, 2005

How do you say goodbye
In the light of the setting sun?
How do you let this angel go
When his time has just begun?

This lifetime is just a raindrop
In forever sunny skies,
And when the clouds have parted,
I will look into your eyes.

SEE YOU IN THE MORNING,
When the sun is shining bright.
I won't say goodbye, love,
I will only say goodnight.

How do you say, "I love you"
For the first time and the last?
A lifetime of things I long to do,
In a moment soon to pass.

There's so much I want to tell you.
You'll fill the corners of my heart.
But I'll just kiss you one sweet time,
Then we two must part.

SEE YOU IN THE MORNING,
When the sun is shining bright.
So I won't say goodbye, love,
I will only say goodnight.
